Teaching for High Potential (THP) is a publication from the National Association for Gifted Children (NAGC) designed with educators in mind. Each issue is filled with practical guidance and classroom-based materials for educators striving to understand and challenge their high-potential learners.

- THP is included in each polybag mailing of Gifted Child Quarterly, sent to NAGC members four times each year (January, April, July, and October).
- In addition, individual members who do not choose to receive Gifted Child Quarterly receive THP.
- THP is now available online to members with multiple links throughout the website to THP issues and articles.
- THP also has a “pass along” value that contributes to raising awareness among educational practitioners and administrators.
